

FIRST YEAR STUDENT ADVISING SHEET

MAJOR: Philosophy

COURSES REQUIRED BY THE MAJOR

First Semester

- Philosophy (see note 1)

Second Semester

- Philosophy (see note 1)

NOTES:

1. In the first year, students should select from among the following Philosophy courses: PH 105 Introduction to Philosophy; PH 115 Ethics; PH 110 Logic & Critical Thinking. In the spring semester, students may also select a course in the PH 255 Applied Ethics Series (Medical, Business, Legal, or Environmental Ethics).
2. Mathematical Analysis is required in the first year.
3. Students intending to major in philosophy are required to take 24 hours in the Department as well as three sequential courses outside the Department. The extra-departmental courses will be determined by the track that the individual student elects (Natural/Social Science, Professional Ethics, or Humanities).
4. In addition, all philosophy majors must write a senior thesis and present it orally to the department staff and interested persons.
5. Double-majors in philosophy and some other area of study are highly encouraged and facilitated within the department.

Students interested in philosophy should contact Dr. Michael Silberstein, Department Chair, Wenger 475, extension 1253, silbermd@etown.edu.
