Visiting Professor in English English Department

The Elizabethtown College Department of English invites applications for a Visiting Professor in English, effective fall 2016.

This position is for a two-year, assistant professor level in undergraduate professional writing program. Candidates must hold a terminal graduate degree in English or closely related field. Preference will be given to those who have earned a Ph.D. Candidates should have expertise working on the web, (for our course “Word, Web, and Design”), and with technical or legal writing, as well as first year composition courses. The selected candidate will also teach in an area of his or her choice.

The English department at Elizabethtown College offers a vibrant, flexible academic program. Learn classic and modern literature, while developing writing and analytical skills for the professional world.

Located in southeastern Pennsylvania, Elizabethtown College offers its 1,900 students more than 53 academic programs in the liberal arts, sciences and professional studies. Driven by its commitment to “Educate for Service,” Elizabethtown centers learning in strong relationships, links classroom instruction with experiential learning, emphasizes international and cross-cultural perspectives and nurtures the capacity for lives of purpose and leadership as global citizens.
