

SVMC Presents:

PREACHING THE REIGN OF GOD:

Prophets, Poets, and Conversations

*Led by Dawn Ottoni-Wilhelm
Brightbill Professor of Preaching & Worship,
Bethany Theological Seminary*

November 10, 2016

9 AM - 4 PM

Juniata College

Von Liebig Center

Continuing the prophetic legacy of ancient Israel, the preaching of Jesus Christ is permeated with references to the kingdom (or “reign”) of God. Where is this “reign of God” to be found in the church’s relationship to the most difficult problems of our time—to terrorism, income inequality, climate change, and human sexuality? This preaching symposium will examine what Jesus preached about the reign of God, as well as how he did it. It will share new developments in the art and craft of preaching, in particular that of “conversational homiletics.” Through lecture, worship, small group discussion, and workshop time, participants will explore how their own preaching may proclaim God’s life-giving reign among us.
