What does it mean to receive and speak a divinely inspired message?
Does it come through a dream, a vision, a moment of ecstasy, or is it a gradual process? What is prophecy? In what forms and media do inspired people express their messages? How do claims of inspiration change the status of the speakers among fellow members of their group and in the eyes of outsiders?

At this conference, “Privileged Speech: Prophecy, Pietism and Beyond,” presenters will engage participants in questions about the definition of inspiration and prophecy, and how privileged speech affected those who accepted and challenged claims of inspiration. Topics range from Anabaptists to the Inspirationists, the Ephrata Community, the Shakers, the Harmonists and others. We welcome you to learn and discuss the privilege of religious speech.
