Prevent Problem: Change Your Password Now

Stop! Before you start packing for the summer, there are a few things left to take care of on campus. The most important thing is to change your password so you don't lose access to your email or JayWeb. Click below to find out what needs to be finished before you don those shades and splash into the summer heat.

Email - Out of Office

Did you know you can set up your email to automatically reply that you are not on campus over the summer? Follow these instructions in order to create an Out of Office Reply rule so your professors and email correspondents won't be left in the dark. You can decide what it says, who it goes to, and even set a date for when OWA will stop automatically replying!

Spotlight: Swivl

Have you seen the neat robots ITS now has for check out? You can use the Swivl recording robot with an iPod or iPad to record speeches, presentations, and student teaching. It can be extremely useful for putting together a portfolio, demonstrating public speaking or student teaching experience for future employers, and capturing video for projects.

The robot can charge to run for several hours without its cord, making it portable, and it can turn 360°, making it versatile for recordings that include movement. It's easy to use, provides great audio, and smooth movement without the usual "jumpiness" seen in videos. To find out how you can check out the Swivl, contact the ITS Help Desk at helpdesk@etown.edu or x3333.

Sleep Tight – Limit Late Night Tech

Is your smartphone an electronic boogeyman? Everyone knows that you shouldn't be looking at a screen before bed. Most people do it anyway because they have to watch that last episode of Breaking Bad or just need to finish that one last paper. But what is the true cost and how does it affect your sleep? Click below to find out.
