*Title IX of the Educational Amendments of 1972 prohibits discrimination based on sex. Sexual harassment of students, which includes acts of sexual violence, is a form of sex discrimination prohibited by this federal law. When incidents of sexual harassment or sexual violence, including domestic violence, stalking, and dating violence, occur and are reported to campus security authorities, Elizabethtown takes immediate and effective steps to end sexual harassment and sexual violence. Retaliation against individuals reporting sexual harassment and/or sexual violence will not be tolerated and will be addressed through the appropriate college process (Student Conduct and/or Human Resources). Questions about Elizabethtown College's Title IX policy and protocol should be directed to Dr. Armenta Hinton, Equity & Title IX Coordinator, hintona@etown.edu, 717.361.1179

The Campus Sexual Assault Victims' Bill of Rights is a part of the Higher Education Amendments of 1992 (Public Law: 102-325, section 486(c)) and requires that all colleges and universities (both public and private) participating in federal student aid programs afford sexual assault victims certain basic rights. Complaints about failure to comply with this law should be made to the U.S. Department of Education's Office for Civil Rights.
