Called to Lead

WHAT IS CALLED TO LEAD?

Called to Lead is a leadership development program where students personally craft their own program based on their interests and schedule.

CUSTOMIZABLE

You join at any time by simply attending an event on the schedule.
No need to RSVP to most of our events; just show up!
Attend the events that interest you and that fit into your schedule.

FLEXIBLE

If you need to take some time off from the program's events, then do so.
There are many additional opportunities for earning points, other than the events (see the next page).

NO REQUIREMENTS

You make the program your own by choosing what events you will attend and what ongoing opportunities you will participate in.
There is no checklist with a list of items that you must complete.

WHO IS INVOLVED?

Called to Lead is open to any student, any major, any year. Current leaders. Emerging leaders. Even students who don't think they are leaders (but want to develop these skills). More than 400 students are involved.

WHAT WILL I GET?

Examine yourself – your strengths, leadership style, emotional intelligence.
Learn about leadership – theories, types, practices, examples.
Fuse the two to equip yourself to be a successful leader – at Etown and after Etown.

You receive points for everything you do in Called to Lead; the points signify learning.
You receive awards when you reach 300 points (a fleece jacket)
And 600 points (a portfolio).

If you want to complete the program, then you must earn 1,000 points and complete the Senior Capstone Assignment during your senior year.
You will be recognized at the Annual Awards Ceremony & Commencement.

If you don't want to complete the program, then that's fine.
You can learn a lot by attending events that interest you.

HOW DO I BEGIN OR JOIN?

Just find an event on the schedule that interests you and attend it.
No need to RSVP – just show up!
You do not have to attend everything on the calendar, just those events that interest you.
